SINOPSIS

The darkly comic, addictive new novel about friendship and envy from the bestselling author of JUST GOT REAL and GETTING RID OF MATTHEW'A brilliantly twisty drama to curl up with' HEAT'Propulsive, with twists and turns I didn't see coming, yet warm and good-hearted. I enjoyed it SO much' JENNIE GODFREY'A dark tale about friendship, jealousy and lies' THE SUN 'Warm, witty and wise, this wickedly funny tale of betrayal, infidelity, jealousy and friendship had me gasping with surprise till the very satisfying end' KATHY LETTE'A hugely enjoyable and totally unpredictable tale of social climbing, curtain-twitching, bed-hopping and scheming. This is Jane Fallon at the top of her game' ERIN KELLY'Her snappy, clever fiction .

. . . seems to slip down like a glass of nicely chilled white wine' SUNDAY TELEGRAPH'Jane Fallon's books never disappoint.

She's so good at tapping into the best and the worst in us. Fabulous' RUTH JONES'I LOVED it - deliciously twisty, satisfying fun. I'm always so happy when I'm reading Jane Fallon - I can never begin to guess where she's going, but how I adore coming along for the ride!' DAISY BUCHANANNO ONE'S SECRETS ARE SAFE...

Kitty thought moving to London would spice up her life. Unfortunately, she ended up on Ashdown Close, where the hottest topic of gossip is a missed bin collection. That was before the arrival of Sian and Rich at number 8.

They are cool and glamorous, and Kitty is perfectly willing to be dazzled by their company. But when she spots a mysterious woman furtively leaving their house, she realises they might not be the magnetic couple she thought. Aided and abetted by best friend Grace, Kitty feels she needs to investigate.

Do Sian and Richard really have something to hide, or are Kitty and Grace just being nosy neighbours? And if they are, perhaps they are not the only ones. Because on this street's nobody's business might just turn out to be everybody's business . .

. PRAISE FOR JANE FALLON'Gripping, sharp and brilliantly twisty. Deliciously readable.
